

Research for professional and advanced dancers with James Wilton (GB)

11th June – 15th June 2012 | Presentation at tanz ist Festival: 17th June

The research program is organized by netzwerkTanz in cooperation with tanz ist. This year one of England's most famous dancers, James Wilton will lead the programme. After graduating from London Contemporary Dance School he created works for the Scottish Dance Theatre, The Place London, Sadlers Wells Opera House London, the Opera House Graz and others. He also leads his own company James Wilton Dance.

Content: My work is always about challenging dance artists physically and mentally. I like to push people into new places and help them discover new things about themselves and the way they dance and create.

The creation of my movement material often comes from improvisation around simple ideas or games that slowly become more and more complex. I like to create movement material that is highly complex and often very fast. The purpose of this is to force the performers to find a new level of focus and to discover the true intention behind the movement.

During the week we will explore the philosophies and movements of martial arts and how these can be used to generate exciting movement material. There will be a heavy focus on partner work and pushing performers to move with greater speed and precision, whilst maintaining a mental calm and clarity of thought.

Each day will begin with a floor based technique class emphasizing the importance of safety. The class is very physical and cardio-vascular and draws influence from flying-low technique, Jiu Jitsu, Tae Kwon Do, Capoeira and Breakdancing.
